

New Hurricane- Thursday, September 09, 2004

Contributed by Oliver Hansen
Tuesday, 06 December 2005

Hi All,

Well, Hurricane Ivan looks like it won't pass us by. We're at our "consolidation point" right now which is a hotel in Kingston.

I've got most of my stuff with me and they're giving us meals and things. It's kind of an interesting feeling because on the satellite images it's definitely coming, but having never seen anything like this, it's hard to imagine. It's a category 4 right now, but fluctuating with 5 which is 150-160mph winds. Basically it's gonna do some damage. The building feels pretty safe and it's good to be with friends.

Anyways, I just wanted to tell ya it might be a while before I'll be in touch. Internet, power and the cell phones might not be working afterward. I'd appreciate any prayers.

-Oliver